Neither she athena nor her envy were able to find a mistake in the piece of work. The golden haired goddess was jealous of her success and she ripped up the cloth embroidered with devine crime.

She touched her hair with a horrible poison and it immediately fell out. Her nose, ears, and head became very small. On her sides, she attached slender fingers in the place of her legs. However she took over the rest of her stomach, however from which she spun thread and practiced her former skill of spinning as a spider.
