10.	Ovid usage of fire to describe the love both pyramus and thisbe have for each other, is very effective and even though there may be obstacles in the way fire always finds a way through. Just as in the story when parents of both families don't want them to be together they eventually find away to be with each other.
11.	Pyramus and thisbe were clearly love as since they were so desperate to find away to see each other the crack in the wall provided a way which they were able to whisper thru through this was one of the only way they were able

	to communicate. However they had to be careful that the pi parents didn't overhear them talking.
	Another way which showed they were in love was they were blowing kisses through the small crack in the wall. This enhanced the love they both had for each other.
	Finally, they had planned to run away from home together. This was a very clear indication that they were in love as they were prepared to risk everything to be with one and other.
b)	Yes, I believe that the description of the behaviour were realistic as all they wanted was one and other and if there was a chance they would take it.

12a)	As Thesebe emerges from her hiding place there would be many emotions she experiences. One would obviously be upset, as she sees the love of her life lying, dying in a pool of blood. Which could so easily been prevented. Secondly, she could feel regret that she didn't wait at the agreed meeting place (at the mulberry tree) and if she did the tragic death would not have happened. Thesebe may also have experienced the feeling of loss as she would no longer be able to live their life together.

13	• It can be seen as a happy ending as they were able to get their wish granted and to be buried together. • Also that from that moment on berries on Mulberry trees are forever blood red, as the blood sprayed all over them, Pyramus and Thisbe will always be remembered together.

14	Both Baucis and Philemon were a happily married couple who shared every task they do equally, this meant that they didn't have the one person who did everything they made everything equal. They were also both God-fearing so this meant that they didn't do anything they weren't supposed to do. Finally, by admitting that they were poor showed that they didn't really matter that they weren't the richest and made the best out of every situation that they had.
15	Baucis and Philemon immediately made the visitors welcome as they didn't think twice twice about allowing

	It is almost the same situation
	as Pyramus and Thisbe.
	• Also While people are in love
	they will try and do anything to be near to talk or be near them,
	just like pyramus and Thisbe found
