

Candidate evidence

Candidate 2

ENTER NUMBER OF QUESTION	A Tale of Two Mice	DO NOT WRITE IN THIS MARGIN
	Once upon a time in a mouse-hole lived a country mouse ^{mouse} mouse. A mouse invited ^{him} to ^{the} town to have dinner with him. Although the country mouse ^{mouse} mouse was poor they were offered much food that was available. However the mouse town's food was hardly touched. 'this food is too ordinary' the mouse said the mouse town. 'You should live in the town. It is better than in the countryside. Come to dinner at my place.'
	They both hurried to the town. The middle of the night in the rich cheery house. In the large dining room the mouse was making dinner really well. So the food was very delicious. everything was eaten the country mouse ^{mouse} mouse was happy because 'their stomachs was ^{were} full.
	Suddenly a huge noise shook the whole house. Dogs burst in the dining room barking fiercely. The mice terrified was running running out the house.

Then the country at ^{mouse} mine said 'goodbye friend! I do not want a large dinner.
Enough I decide my tiny dog. This towns life is not for me.	