ENTER NUMBER OF QUESTION	Section 2	DO NOT WRITE IN THIS MARGIN
19)	a) One cause of crime could be revenge. If someone has harmed you or a loved one, you may want them to suffer for their actions. It might upset you to see them doing perfectly fine without good punishment. Your anger could influence you to interrupt their peace by harming them. A second cause is drugs / alcohol. When someone is under the influence, they are not thinking straight. It could cause them to do things they would never do. It can make them angry or slow down their train of thought. This is why so many arguments and fights are happen when alcohol/drugs are involved. This is also why there are so many accidents caused by drunk driving. Another cause is environment. People who grew up in rough areas can be

	more violent and aggressive due to the fact that they that's what they grow up around. They might be more alert as they don't trust as easy, sometimes. In some cases, people are so used to witnessing harmful activity, it can make them grow up to do the same as it's normalised. Also, people may feel the need to steal things as they don't have enough money.
	b) Amnesty International believes that people deserve second chances. They understand causes of crime and believe instead of harsh punishment, we should help people. They believe in reformation. They have a more gentle, humane approach / view on crime. forbidden to leave your house for a certain amount of time. You get ~~some~~ a monitor on you to make sure you do not leave. Another type is public service. This is when you have to do something to help the environment. This could be something like litter picking. This is useful as it ~~prove~~ helps the community and punishes the criminal. It is also more humane as it isn't incredibly harsh. A third type is fines. Fines are when you have to pay back a certain amount of money to the government. This ~~is~~ can be for things like speeding.

b) A non-custodial sentence can affect someone in many ways. Firstly, the amount of a fine is the same for rich and poor people. It is so unfair that a fine could mean so little for a rich person but can really damage a poor person. Secondly, community service doesn't seem harsh enough. It's not much of a punishment as it's a basic task that a lot of people do voluntarily in their free time. Thirdly, not everyone has time for community service. People have jobs to do and can't afford to give up time. Finally, many people are too busy for house arrest. Not everyone has a job that can be done from home.

21)	On one hand I agree that religious people have a moral responsibility to oppose capital punishment. One reason for this is that they have to forgive. In Christianity, in order to for God to forgive you, you must forgive others. Killing someone for their crimes isn't very forgiving. Secondly, we sin all the time. How can we punish others for their sins if it's not our
